Notice Regarding the Occurrence of Ransomware Infection Damage and the Possibility of Information Leakage at Consolidated Subsidiaries

Yodogawa Steel Works, Ltd. (the “Company”) has confirmed that the server of Sheng Yu Steel Co., Ltd. (“SYSCO”), a consolidated subsidiary of the Company in Taiwan, has suffered an unauthorized access by a third party, which has caused ransomware infection damage, and that some personal information of employees and confidential information managed by SYSCO may have been leaked.

With regards to this incident, we are investigating the extent of the infection damage and taking measures for early recovery with the support of outside experts. We are also consulting with the local police and other relevant organizations.

It is expected that it will take some time to grasp the full details of the impact and the causes.

We would like to extend our deepest apologies to all stakeholders for the significant concerns and inconveniences caused.

1. The Circumstance of Unauthorized Access

On Sunday, March 30, 2025, we confirmed an unauthorized access to SYSCO’s server and found that various files stored on the server were encrypted.

2. Current Status and Future Responses

With the support of outside experts, we are currently investigating the cause as well as information leakage and considering measures to prevent reoccurrence. We will take actions to minimize any inconveniences this may cause to all stakeholders and promptly announce the details as soon as they are available.

SYSCO’s server is constructed and operated separately from other companies of the Yodogawa Steel Group (“the Group”) located in other regions. No effect on this incident has been confirmed at the Group’s companies other than SYSCO and Yodoko International Ltd., a subsidiary of SYSCO.

3. Impact on Business Performance

We are in the process of examining the impact of this incident on the Group’s business performance. We will promptly disclose any information that we deem to have a material impact on our business results.
